The phrase "Peace Be Upon Him" is used by Muslims as a mark of respect and veneration for Muslim prophets and other figures of respect. The use of this honorific is mentioned specifically in the Qu'ran, and also in other supportive texts used by Muslims, such as the Hadith. Non-Muslims are not expected to say this phrase when discussing Muslim prophets, although they certainly may do so.

Why do Muslims Use the Phrase "Peace be Upon Him"?

(16) Now.--Rather, And, or But. The prayer is joined to the exhortations, as in 2Thessalonians 2:16 and elsewhere, and of course bears upon the subject of them.. The Lord of peace.--We had "the God of peace" at the close of the last Epistle (1Thessalonians 5:23, where see the Note).The "peace" prayed for here has perhaps a more immediate reference to external matters than in the parallel passage.
